

HORSES, A LOCAL SPECIALITY...

While walking on the chemin des 7 clochers, you will notice that horses are everywhere in the surroundings. And one of the typical equestrian activity in the region is the galloping training centre. Not to be missed.

Actually, each morning you can observe about 500 to 600 horses getting prepared on the various grassy or sandy tracks or relaxing in the rings under the supervision of both trainers and owners.

This highly efficient equipment allows horses and horse riders to get high scores and win many contests in local and national racecourses.

Trotting breeders-trainers are also very active locally and have their own individual training tracks.

Everyone can practise horse riding regardless of their level. An equestrian centre offers horse riding courses for beginners and also outdoor riding sessions. A horse riders association is also very active locally.

This trail is registered in the P. D. I. P. R.
(Departmental Map of routes dedicated to walks and trails).

RELIGIOUS HERITAGE

The religious heritage is rich and varied: schist crosses, chapels, wayside crosses and many churches of which you may see 7 bell-towers: Saint-Aubin de Pouancé, Pouancé, Senonnes, Eancé, Saint-Erblon, Saint-Aignan and la Rouaudière.

Schist crosses in this district reflect popular worship and also show the way to Santiago de Compostela. Either plainly or sophisticatedly carved, you can spot them along the trails.

Saint-Aubin church is the first parish church in Pouancé. Standing on the site of a former edifice dating from the High Middle Ages, Saint-Aubin church was restored in part during the 19th century.

Today, the church boasts, among other things, an Altarpiece and lateral altars dating from 1698.

➡ Saint-Aubin church in Pouancé is listed among the "welcoming churches in Anjou".

In case you notice any anomaly on your way through, please inform the Commune d'Ombree d'Anjou. Your remarks will help us maintain all the trails in good condition.
